

So Close, But Never Near – Written & Performed by Ryan Dsouza

Verse One

On this cold November day , in this quiet room
I can feel your pain , and I am hurting too
I called to say I'm sorry , I own all the blame
But , you wont, give in, to that same old game
Now you're in your world and I'm in mine,
Searching for answers , we just , can't seem to find.

Chorus

We don't talk like before , and we're too blind to see
Every day slipping away between you and me
We shared the sun and rain, but nothing can explain
Why we're still here, so close but never near

Verse 2 :

We've had good intentions , from the very start
But the smallest of things , just keep tearing us apart
We've given ourselves , a place to call home
And somehow we're together, yet all alone
It feels like the heavens keep testing our ground
To see if we could last, when the storms come around

Chorus

We don't talk like before , and we're too blind to see
Every day slipping away between you and me
We shared the sun and rain, but nothing can explain
Why we're still here, so close but never near

Bridge

Our past still continues to sting
Our deepest feelings no one else can see
Like a sand castle , before its washed away
When the real truth is , there's no one to blame

Chorus

We don't talk like before , and we're too blind to see
Every day slipping away between you and me
We shared the sun and rain, but nothing can explain
Why we're still here, so close but never near

Outro

And we're still here, so close , but never near

Copyright Ryan Dsouza , SOCAN